

Boilerhouse Kitchen & Bar was built in 1913 and was one of the key operational buildings at the former north head quarantine station. Boilerhouse Kitchen & bar, originally the powerhouse, was the main supplier of power to the site between 1913 and 1930. the building is identifiable by the large brick chimney in its southwest corner which is highly visible from the water.

From November 2006 until opening in April 2008 a huge readaptation project was undertaken across the whole quarantine station site. The transformation included the old powerhouse building, turning it from a disused power station into the q station's restaurant. Internally the mezzanine level and staircase were installed as well as the kitchen. It was important however to retain the external features, so the chimney and original windows remain. The lower deck now covers the area where the former coal store was. the former engine room of the powerhouse now has been transformed into the engine room bar.

AN EVENING WITH BIMBADGEN WINES

Wednesday 7th August

CANAPES

Smoked kangaroo on potato crisps tomato bush chutney

Gin-cured kingfish on aniseed myrtle blini pickled ginger, marjoram

Goats cheese [v] spinach, toasted walnuts on blinis, fennel jam, bitter guard chips, potato crackers

ENTREE

Pan-seared scallops on seaweed togarashi, brown butter

Potato scallops on seaweed [v] togarashi, brown butter

MAINS

Pan-roasted lamb loins swede mash, mint jus, wafers

Roasted eggplant [v] chunky tomato salsa, swede mash, wafers

SWEET

Wattle-seed chocolate cheesecake [v] lemon thyme caramel, hazelnut praline

Find us on Instagram @boilerhouseatq & @bimbadgen
v – vegetarian | vg – vegan | df – dairy free | gf – gluten free