

Q STATION EDUCATION

STAGE 3: SUITCASE STORIES

Migration Through Quarantine

Who were the people who came to Australia via the Quarantine Station in the 19th and 20th centuries?

Students will discover the migration stories and differing perspectives of some of the thousands of people whose lives include time spent at the Quarantine station. Using the site as a primary source we challenge students to learn about the significance of the Quarantine station site and how changes in Australian society were reflected within the quarantine landscape.

What will you do on the tour?

Enjoy a 2 hour guided tour around site, visiting a variety of our historical buildings. Students will view the societal changes over the 19th and 20th centuries, discover various groups and waves of migration to Australia, and the reason Quarantine was so important to the colonies. Mystery suitcases will be presented to uncover their owners.

Our expert guides are there to work with any particular focus area you may have, and prior knowledge the students may have, and can adjust their tour based on your group's requirements.
